After-School Clubs - USA

In the USA, many children stay after school to do activities with different clubs. They do this for fun and to learn new, interesting things. Some popular clubs that kids join are:

Drama Club

Children who do drama club like to act, sing and dance. It's very common for kids in these clubs to practice all three things and prepare a final show, or play. They practice in a theater and use the stage, instruments and costumes. When they do the final play, they perform it in front of an audience.

Orchestra

Orchestra is a group of children who play different instruments together in a music room. There are string instruments like violins and violas, wind instruments like flutes and clarinets, brass instruments like trumpets and trombones and percussion instruments like drums and pianos. They read music and follow the conductor. They usually practise one instrument and prepare a concert for their parents.

Spanish Club

Spanish club is for children who like learning the Spanish language. They get together in a classroom and learn more Spanish than they study in class. They speak and sing in Spanish. Kids in this club also learn about the culture in different countries like Spain, Mexico and Columbia. Sometimes they even try typical foods from these countries.

Cooking Club

In cooking club, children spend their time learning about different foods. They read cook books and experiment with new recipes. They make sweet things like cakes and cookies, and savory things like pizzas and chicken. When they're finished, they eat the delicious food they've made. At the end, they must clean all the utensils they use and put all the food away.

Bowling Team

Bowling is played as a hobby all around the world. On the bowling team, a 'bowler' rolls a bowling ball down a lane and they hit as many pins as possible to score points. A game is divided into 10 rounds called 'frames'. If the first ball knocks down all the pins it is called a 'strike'. Some clubs let their teams compete against other clubs to practise sport and have fun. The champions usually get a trophy.
